

MRS. PETERSON'S STORY.

I have suffered with womb trouble over fifteen years. I had inflammation, enlargement and displacement of the womb.

The doctor wanted me to take treatments, but I had just begun taking Mrs. Pinkham's Compound, and my husband said I had better wait and see how much good that would do me. I was so sick when I began with her medicine, I could hardly be on my feet. I had the headache constantly, also headache, and was so dizzy. I had heart trouble, it seemed as though my heart was in my throat at times choking me. I could not walk around and I could not lie down, for then my heart would beat so fast I would feel as though I was smothering. I had to sit up in bed nights in order to breathe. I was so weak I could not do anything.

I have now taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used three packages of Sanative Wash, and can say I am perfectly cured. I do not think I could have lived long if Mrs. Pinkham's medicine had not helped me.—Mrs. JOSEPH PETERSON, 513 East St., Warren, Pa.

MORRISVILLE.

Mrs. F. H. Gates was in Burlington and inspected the W. R. C. yesterday afternoon.

The annual business meeting of the A. C. church will be held at G. H. Prior's, Nov. 6, 1897, at 10 A. M. It is hoped all its members will be present, as there is important business to attend to, the appointing of officers for the coming year and also choosing delegates to attend our yearly conference.

A slight turn from the long period of mild dry weather occurred last Thursday night. There was a slight fall of rain and between midnight and one o'clock Friday morning a thunder shower made something of a demonstration. During Friday there was just a bit of a show of snow in the air, the first of the season. The dust was settled anyhow. October furnished but about an inch of rain.

We again take the liberty to suggest the point that the dynamo which sends us up the electric current for incandescent lights is overloaded. The wiring for such lights has reached a point far in excess of the safe carrying capacity of the machine. This dynamo, as described to us, is capable of running 1050 16-candle-power incandescent lights. It is true that nearer twice that number of lights are connected. It will cost money, but a 2500-light machine, if secured now, would give the individual takers illumination nearer up to right candle-power, and will provide against the long period of darkness that must necessarily follow a general breakdown of a largely overworked machine.

Railroad Crossings Again.

Monday morning of this week as the half past nine express train from the east cancrushing down, it halted at the Tenney bridge crossings east of this village, and there alighted from the train Division Superintendent E. H. Folsom of Lyndonville, Assistant Superintendent E. H. Blossom of St. Johnsbury, and Roadmaster Charles Severance. They were met there by State Railroad Commissioner Frank Keuffel of Morrisville and the selectmen of the town of Morrisville.

The party thus gathered were there to look the ground over and consider the possible abolishment of the crossings at that point, which are acknowledged to be of the most dangerous on the road. Superintendent Folsom believed that the Darling crossing could be easily done away with by excavating the bank at the right of the railroad going up, widening the cut and bringing the Darling road around onto the main highway. He also thought that by coming toward Morrisville fifteen or twenty rods the highway could be cut through under the railroad track and then run parallel to the track, between track and river, until the bridge is reached. The two roads constructed in that way, with high board fences between highway and railroad, would do away with grade crossings and be a great safeguard for the general public. Superintendent Folsom promised to have his engineer, Mr. Williams, here on Saturday of this week to survey and make plans of the situation and proposed changes, and make estimates. He further stated that the town might do the work, or if the town preferred, the railroad people would do it and in either case the road would pay two-thirds of the expense, the town paying the other third; or he would consent to have the State Railroad Commissioners say how the expenses of the proposed undertaking should be divided. This would seem a fair proposition and it undoubtedly will have the favorable consideration of our town fathers. The Darling road could be changed this fall, but the larger undertaking would better wait until spring.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well known at Woodstock, Me., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by H. J. Dineen, Morrisville; G. B. Foss, Hyde Park; Dr. T. P. Hubbell, Woleort.

At The Methodist Church.

Not much has been said, not a great deal has been done, but it is a fact that within the past few weeks, two months or more, an unusual religious interest has developed in the church around the corner. Recognizing this fact, the pastor, Rev. J. H. Wallace, has made arrangements with the noted evangelist, Rev. I. T. Johnson of Massachusetts, who was the leading speaker during the late Holiness campmeeting here, and who will open a series of revival meetings in that church on Wednesday of next week, November 10.

Firemen's Ball.

On Wednesday evening, November 24, will be held the annual ball and supper under the auspices of the Morrisville fire department. The proceeds of this event will go toward furnishing with necessary equipments the new firemen's hall, which is being furnished in the Union St. engine house. Such a worthy object should have a liberal aid by public patronage. The ball will be held in the town hall, and the supper will be served in the Masonic banquet hall on the second floor of the same building, thus avoiding the unpleasant feature of going outside for supper. The repast will be served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Sons of Veterans. Music will be furnished by Elmore's orchestra and a rousing good time is expected. The fees connected with the event will be 75 cents per couple for the ball, and 75 cents per couple for the supper, or $1.50 per couple for full bill. It is the night before Thanksgiving, as usual.

A Halloween Episode.

Would that all Halloweens might pass so nicely and really enjoyably, as did last Saturday night, in Morrisville. To be sure there was a little of this usual sort of thing in the line of piling up rubbish, changing signs, etc., but not bad at that. As the chief and very unique and successful attraction of the evening twenty or more of the students in the Academy made a solemn agreement, and by the terms of that agreement twenty or more young men and young ladies met at the home of Oscar Gates on Park street.

The young ladies were to be allowed to depart from the above named place at seven o'clock, and at eight o'clock the young men could sally forth in search of the fair damsels, and if at nine o'clock they had not found them, the young men must furnish the supper. On the other hand the young ladies must furnish the supper if they were found before the clock struck nine. They were not to enter any dwelling house, and must remain hidden together in one place and were given territory slightly within the limits of the village corporation.

The program, as arranged, was fully carried out, the young men made frantic endeavors to unearth the Misses, who, it must be admitted were very shy, and very, very unusually quiet. It seems they snatched in one by one around the rear of the Randall, made for a bat-way door left invitingly open, and huddled together, whilst as mice, in the basement under Waterman's store, coming forth like a cyclone up the ladder, out from the trap-door and through the store, after their hour had safely passed and all much to the chagrin of the young men, who had imagined that they had a "dead easy" thing of it.

Into the Randall they went and at a little before ten o'clock they were seated at a sumptuous repast provided by Landford Randall. The young men paid the bills and registered as from "Wayback," while the young women, immensely pleased with their easy victory, registered as from "Wayahead." The party was composed of the following:—

Messrs. Bloom A. Palmer, George G. Moore, A. Oscar Gates, Hollis E. Gray, George N. Ousewood, Harry A. Peck, Levi P. Munson, Leon F. Booth, Fred E. Beach, Gay C. Rocheleau, Misses Emilie Rublee, Grace M. Camp, Edith S. Dodge, Stella M. Hadley, Eugenie B. Rocheleau, Cora Woodward, Blanche A. Peck, Maud E. Booth, L. A. Atchison, A. Gilbert and Nellie E. Darling.

Lamoille Grange.

The picnic dinner at Grange Hall last Thursday, as usual, brought out a goodly number of grangers. The deliciously prepared food and tastefully arranged tables at this dinner were good testimonials of the fact that the sisters know how to cook, if they do have a day in town for Grange meeting every two weeks.

The program arranged by Ceres for the afternoon was well carried out and proved interesting. The quotations presented furnished thoughts for the thoughtful. Good advice was given by Worthy Master Campbell in a selection, by I. E. Booth in a few well chosen remarks, and by Worthy Secretary Small in an original paper. Songs by Lulu Douglas, Alice Churchill and Mrs. Levi Gile, were very much enjoyed, the latter being encored, responded with a temperance song, accompanying herself on the autoharp. One application for membership was received.

Next evening meeting will be Friday, Nov. 5. The committee who have had this in charge have spared no pains to prepare a pleasing program and for greater attraction ice cream and cake will be conspicuous. It is hoped there may be a good number at this meeting.

Lamoille Grange has recently purchased some text books entitled "First Principles of Agriculture," by Edward B. Voorhees, A. M. Director of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, and Prof. of Agriculture in Rutgers College, New Brunswick, New Jersey, "The Constituents of Plants," and "Origin and Formation of Soils," as treated in this book will be considered at the next regular session, which occurs Thursday afternoon, Nov. 11.

"First Principles of Agriculture" is recommended by professors and teachers and is used as a text book in different States. Grangers, come to the next meeting, so you will have no absent marks in this agricultural school.

Welcomed Back.

Sunday was a day of gladness at the Congregational church, marking as it did the first public service held by its pastor, Rev. G. N. Kellogg, since the serious accident that befell him on June 23. The long weeks of uncertainty have passed, and once more the genial pastor speaks to his congregation with very much the same vigor as before. A large audience greeted him on Sunday morning and an interesting service followed. The music was exceptionally good, the quartette selection and duet being very enjoyable.

The pastor read for the morning lesson the 2nd chapter of Philippians and later from the 12th and 13th verses of that chapter selected his text. Prefacing his sermon by a timely remark the pastor said that he found himself in a somewhat trying position, feeling that which he found difficult to express. He wished to be allowed to take this his first opportunity to say a word of a personal nature, to thank one and all for the kindly interest shown and the service rendered during the time of his severe trial. It is not easy to express in words the feeling of the heart, but he realized how much his case had been in the thought and prayer of this people. His news from the work here which has been carried so courageously forward during his absence from his home place, had cheered his heart. The work has been taken up without faltering under very discouraging circumstances, and it is now with gratitude in the heart for the tender mercies of God that he resumes his work with you.

In referring to his chosen text the speaker laid special stress upon the words "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." This he wished to make the groundwork of his first message which he thought could hardly be called a sermon. Two thoughts there are which I would emphasize in bringing this subject. First, work out your own salvation. This idea of working out is of importance. What is our idea of salvation? Is it to pluck like a brand from the burning, all scarred and defaced by the contact with the elements? True, God has power to make perfect, but the dwarfing of mind and body by sin is not first necessary to bring to our choice the saving grace of God. Our lives can grow out into the Divine life, if we will have it so. Salvation does not merely mean believing on the Lord Jesus Christ and His sacrifice and so evading punishment; it is not a doubtful hope of Heaven and a narrow escape from hell—redemption is not this. To be saved is to be forgiven, to be restored to the favor of God, to be refashioned into the image of the Master. This, the first work, and then going on step by step, developing into perfection, following out the purposes of life that are worthy, more and more copying God.

To be in Heaven! Is it simply to be in a beautiful place? Heaven is no doubt beautiful, all the magnificent beauties of Heaven tending to produce happiness, but this is not the whole of it. All the hopes that are born within us simply looking to happiness? Oh no, we are to be saved that we may be men and women, reflecting the image of the Master and acting the part of that which is best and highest and noblest in manhood. Heaven is not a place of inactivity; God is saving you and me that we may live a life of service, that we may play the part of men and women through all eternity. He has a purpose, a part for us, life in Heaven is a continuation of a Heavenly service on earth.

Then the second thought comes, what are we to work out, feeling that we are ready and prepared and fixed in our belief. We have simply to be Christians, living each day up to the standard set for us, not putting off till the hour of death, but accepting the highest life now, and living it out, living it for ourselves, but also living it for others. The best thing you can do for the salvation of the world, or your neighbor, is to be a saved man yourself. The highest, best, grandest thing you can do is to live a Christian living, this Christian manhood and womanhood must be worked out, because there are so many influences in the world that do not help in the realization of that purpose. Make up your mind that it must be worked out, not worked at for a little—it is a life work. Man is born in an instant, but it is a life to live. Let us not let some one else do the work, hoping to get the benefit. We must co-operate in the work with the Master. If we could possibly be saved without our own effort and activity, what would we be but an enthroned nobody? Ah, we want to be a saved somebody, inspired to will and to work, that we may be somebody here and in the kingdom. We are charged with our own salvation. See to it that having accepted God we walk with Him now and through the eternal ages.

The above is given simply as an outline of the discourse, caught as it was delivered, extemporaneously, and hardly does it do justice, though showing the excellent line of thought. Instead of the usual session of the Sunday-school in class work, the noon session was held in the church audience room and embraced exercises in the line of a general rally and welcome to the pastor. There were recitations and readings by the scholars, with short addresses by Prof. Beebe, A. F. Sherman of Ludlow, Rev. Mr. Kellogg, L. H. Lewis and A. L. Cheney. The occasion was a very interesting one. In the evening there was a praise service and a brief address by the pastor, drawing to a close an eventful and interesting day.

A Big Loan Business.

The following from the Topeka (Kan.) State Journal of Oct. 27, will interest many of E. B. Merriam's friends hereabouts:—

Mr. E. B. Merriam, of the firm of Bowman & Co., has purchased the interests of the firm of Scott & Brier, loan and mortgage. He will take possession of the business November first and for the present the firm will be run as formerly in the rooms on the first floor of the Columbia building. The firm of Scott & Brier have something like $1,500,000 in loans, all of which is now turned over in E. B. Merriam's name. Mr. Merriam, in speaking of his plans, said:—

"For the present I shall keep the business as it is, in its present quarters. I am figuring out another deal, and if that turns out all right, I may merge the new firm into another one and make a big business of it." The firm of Scott & Brier is one of the oldest in the city. It was organized in 1869 as Brier & Gavitt.

Later it was known as Scott & Brier until 1883, when Mr. John Brier retired from the firm, leaving Mr. Edwin Scott as manager. Mr. James Brier, cashier of the firm, has been in the employ of the firm for 23 years.

Mr. Edwin Scott will probably remove to Colorado in the hopes of benefiting the health of his wife.
